Melonkey was a melancholy donkey.

“Why do you look so sad, Melonkey? Is there no happiness in your life?” Milly and Molly asked him gently one day.

“What is happiness?” Melonkey asked, without lifting his head.

“It’s all sorts of things,” said Milly and Molly thoughtfully.

“When you find out what those things are, let me know. Right now, I’ve got some eating to do.”

And his nose and his ears and his tail, drooped even more.

The Milly, Molly series of books have been written to promote the acceptance of diversity and sound principles for character education.

Happiness is a list of things!
Theme: Happiness

Robert Munsch: Noted author of bestselling children’s books.

“The underlying morals inherent within the texts are important for children of the twenty-first century to take as their own... the language used to carry the stories is lively and exciting for young readers... the language and style is simply good literature... suitable as teaching texts in social studies or health programs anywhere in the world where difference is an integral component of a community”

Professor Dr. Sigrid Markmann: Dean of the Faculty of Literature and Linguistics - University of Osnabrück, Germany
