“The school fund-raiser is a month away. What are we going to sell?” gasped Miss Blythe.

Milly and Molly and their friends thought for a moment.

“We’d like to make shirts,” they said.

“And I’ll make a patchwork quilt with all the leftover scraps of material,” said Miss Blythe. “We can raffle it.”

Mr. Snip was very pleased indeed. He had lots of remnants to sell.

While everyone bought just the right piece of material with their mothers' help, Alf slipped quietly home to Nan.

The Milly, Molly series of books have been written to promote the acceptance of diversity and sound principles for character education.

Robert Munsch: Noted author of bestselling children’s books.

“The underlying morals inherent within the texts are important for children of the twenty-first century to take as their own... the language used to carry the stories is lively and exciting for young readers... the language and style is simply good literature... suitable as teaching texts in social studies or health programs anywhere in the world where difference is an integral component of a community”

Professor Dr. Sigrid Markmann: Dean of the Faculty of Literature and Linguistics - University of Osnabrück, Germany
